Halleluiah!

How many senses does a normal human being have? Even if we say that there are five or six senses, each of those senses is a means of communication with our environment.

Who here knows which of his senses is most developed?

Who has noticed that each of us has the five senses, but there is one sense that is more developed than the others. Although God has given us the same natural senses, the means by which God communicates with each of us so that it can make sense is different.

In spiritual experience, all five senses of the body correspond to the senses of our spirit. Our five senses of the body connect us to the outside world, the senses of our spirit connect us with the spiritual world. Therefore, sight corresponds to vision.

Hearing is hearing.

The sense of smell corresponds to discerning

Touch is burden, a touch.

If you're looking for someone else's spiritual experience, you're going to end up not experiencing God. I want all of us to have visions, but others need to hear God, others need to be gripped by God, touched by God. It's not the way you communicate, it's the fact that He communicated to me.

If you look down on your wife because things didn't happen the way it did for someone else who recounted their experience, even if what happened to the other person happened to you, you weren't going to take it seriously.

I've decided not to live with the children anymore because I no longer have the time to raise them, but if I still had that time, I'm not going to scold them. When God touches their hearts for the first time and they don't do anything, He will have to touch them again before He gets their attention. You have even been spoiled by the way you have been educated, which has led to you not having a good relationship with God. Because even in natural education, it's only when you scold, when you threaten, that you start to want to do something that people obey, and God isn't like that. He is not like your father. God is not going to imitate your father in the way he leads and directs you.

It says in the Psalms: 'I will lead you with my hand on you, but do not be like the donkey that needs to be brutalized before it allows itself to be led.»

Most of us, we want dramatic, restrictive things that suffocate us, God must annihilate our humanity, if he does not suspend everything that is in us, we will not believe that it is God. Just like your child, you tell him: bring me the water, he doesn't do anything because you didn't raise your voice. He waits; You repeat, and he laughs. It's only when you start scolding, insulting him, and sometimes, if it's really a child that you've raised in disobedience, even the scolding doesn't work anymore, you start beating him, and when such a person believes, that's how he's going to evolve with God.

Just because your experience is different from others, God's voice becomes heavier with obedience. If he spoke to you the first time and you didn't obey, next time his voice will be more forceful.

In drinking, a man begins with little but keeps drinking until later, it is the alcohol that drinks him.

All these little things called kisses, when people exchange germs from their mouths, what does it taste like? And the more you do it, the more addicted you become, the more addicted you become. Who understands?

It's not how God speaks that matters, it is the obedience you have rendered to Him in the past that makes the next communication imperative, impressive.

I don't know if I have communicated. Each of us is like that.

If God touches your heart with an outpouring of kindness, you suffocate, you postpone, you say: tomorrow or next time. What level are they going to touch you to get you to do something?

I have a problem with the people around me, brother Sama, my wife, they start to do something, then they leave without finishing and move on, thinking they will come back and they don't. And people just pile up guilt, guilt upon guilt, and one day they're going to say: God didn't give us means to communicate with him.

As soon as God touches you, if you do something, next time, God will be like drug addicts, God will be your drug, and there will come a time when if you feel the lack of pleasing God, your whole being is revolted.

It is repeated obedience that gives more impetus to our communications. If we understand it this way, we will at least begin to repent of our many disobediences.

Who told you that you didn't know what God wanted? But you despised it. Maybe you wanted God to do what your father did; that He will speak a second time, scold, but God is not like that. He himself says he doesn't like to deal with people like robots; He is the one who created your intelligence, all that you are, and He created them to communicate with all of this.

That's why we love superstitions and too many stories. We fall in love with a lot of weird stories, the more someone talks about their quirks (oddities), the more we think they are spiritual.

Even in our human relationships, even with my little girl(granddaughter), if she is doing something, I have a way of looking at her and she stops. When I look at her with disapproval, have I not communicated to her? It is the way we have been brought up that even with men, even the sensitivities that we had to develop in our upbringing, we have developed tough skin, shut ears, hard sensitivities and after a while, we think it's the other person who does not speak.

In relation to everything that happens, even in our ways of expressing pleasure, our experiences are different. There are some who, when they are happy, they scream, others cry and others hop around, they jump. So, don't ask:

Why didn't God meet me as He met the other person who also received the Holy Spirit? Don't ask such a question. It is not God who made it, that is just the way he is. Let the people who cry and cry and those who cry out do so, but none of these reactions are spiritual, all of this is a reflection of the personality, there is no God in all this; it's just the personality.

The same with anger; For some, when they are angry, there are only tears that flow, for others, they lift everything, even break things. Is it anger that breaks things? It is his personality.

And when God touches us, we respond to God according to our personalities. It is not the reactions of our personalities that show that God is there. If it is with tenderness and you receive from God, the main thing is that you go and obey.

God is in heaven; he receives ministry when you obey what he wants. If it is accompanied by your whole personality, He is happy; but it is not all these diversities of manifestations of our personalities that constitute the spiritual, it is the obedience that accompanies them, and it is not the way God speaks to you that matters, it is the obedience that you bring to it.

So, start taking seriously the things God puts in your heart. Whether He spoke loudly or whispered in your heart, is it not God who is important? Is it all about you? If you obeyed, would God be angry?

Most of the things we ask: God, is it you? It was God who said it. You are asking because you know that if you obey, Satan will not be pleased. So, when God tells you to do something and you say, "Lord, confirm it to me..."

I am not saying we should despise someone else's experience. The most important thing is the response of the heart, and the more you respond, the heavier, the stronger the Lord's hand becomes upon you, the more you feel it, the more you know it.

It is our disobedience that has made God far away from each of us. He touched you, you didn't react, he called you, you didn't answer.

I want our spiritual experiences to multiply, but it's not by borrowing someone else's experiences, because you don't have their personality, and God may not communicate with you the way He does with that other person.

- Pray that the Lord will give those who are building families, to raise children in a way that will predispose them to spiritual progress, to obey the Lord.

You will need a lot of violence if you don't start the training early.

Today is the Lord's day, we shall thank the Lord, and those who have met the Lord during the first week of the fast, if you want to testify, you can do it briefly, we can give you an opportunity afterwards.

- Please, those who want to thank the Lord, line up and do so briefly.
- Pray that during this fast, the Lord will grant us to know deep personal encounters with God that transform, and not only transformations, but encounters with God that will enable leaders to emerge.

A WORD OF CORRECTION:

THE BLESSING OF BEING UNDER AUTHORITY. Commitment and being under authority is not the way of suffering. Commitment is an umbrella so that those who are under may not have the rain of God's judgement falling upon them. When you buy an umbrella, are you suffering? You have just bought an umbrella. [But I would like you to put] back to being a missionary to the prayer centre to pray ten hours for missionaries. Get back to praying for the missionaries violently. She will start with four hours because when you come back, you cannot eat too much. The day you break a fast do you eat too much? So even for prayer, the goal is to get to twelve hours. Now that marriage has finished and we have peace. The confusion and demons that bring problems, J will go back to praying ten hours a day for the missionaries of CMFI as your disciple. But in the prayer centre, she will pray. And J. pray! Pray like somebody who has to recover thirteen years. Pray with vengeance, the anger that you have had, that spoiled your life, don't abandon anger. Get angry with the devil. Don't waste the anger. Get angry with the devil. Anger is a powerful resource only it should be used well. Please, come and lay hands on her and pray that after the suffering, all this time of wondering in the wilderness, that is the real period of suffering. When you were under authority in Yaoundé, were you suffering? When you were under Watchman's authority, you prospered. When you are under authority, you prosper. So, it is only Satan lying to you, because when you were under authority, you were better than when you were free. When you were free, you suffered. When you were under authority, you blossomed. The Lord took you, blessed you, the work of your hands, the little that was in your hands exploded. When you were under authority, you know the blessing of being under authority, and it is not the pathway of suffering. That one is slander. It is the slander that the devil has taught you because in your own experience, being under authority here was good for you. Even if it was good for nobody, it was good for you. Who knows J.'s testimony? Eveybody knows that being under authority was good for J. It is freedom that was the pathway of suffering but not of the cross because the pathway of the cross is not the pathway of suffering. The pathway of the cross is the pathway of loving. Jesus went to the cross because He loved us.

The pathway of the cross is what love makes us do. The pathway of the cross not the pathway of suffering. That is Satan's lie. That is why Jesus said, "Father, if this cup can pass away from me, let it do so, but not my will but thine be done." The Lord just wanted to do the Father's will. We have decided to love the brethren and to love them to the end; to love God and to love Him to the end; to love the perishing souls of men, and to love them to the end. And along that pathway, what love demands of us, that is what we call the way of the cross. Do not let Catholicism and monasticism to lie against God. He went to the cross, enduring the shame of it because He had his eyes on the reward. The way of the cross is the way of love, the result of the cross is the glory that comes from the Father. Look at all these people- they follow the way of the worldly cross. They go to school, they sweat, they don't sleep and they do it with joy and beg us to pay school fees for them so that they may have worldly glory. And what we call the pathway of the cross, obedience to God, loving unto the end, is so that we may... If we have been co-heirs with Him, we shall be heirs together with him in His glory.

It is the way of inheritance, the way of glory. Let us not allow the devil slander Jesus in our minds.

Being under authority is protection, security. This wall around us is being under authority. Do you prefer to be outside and let the coldness touch you. Not to be under authority means you don't want a roof over you, not so? Sleep under the empty air. Is that freedom?

A drunkard is free, not so Free to sleep in the gutter, free to sleep inside empty classrooms, free to sleep on people's verandahs' not so? Is the drunkard not free? And inside abandoned cars Etc. That is what they call freedom. Is the president free? If the President kisses any woman, his body guards will know – all of them must know. We all know-does the president have a private life?

In order to be anything even in this world or in the kingdom of God, you are under chains, you are not free. Freedom is for the useless. All usefulness demands limitations. Am I free? When we first came here, I used to take G.M.? She was a suya lover. I used to take her to go and buy suya. Do you think I can go now to 'suya' ministry? They will write all across that the president of CMFI is sedating girls and bringing them to 'suya ministry'. I can no longer go to 'suya ministry'.

Responsibilities, usefulness imposes limitations. If the president of this country is going to the village to visit his old uncle, the whole nation knows.

If you want to be free, be as free as the drunkard. Sleep in gutters, sleep in empty classrooms, sleep in in wretched cars, eat from the dustbin, etc. Are they not free? Who is controlling mad people? Actually, madness is exaggerated freedom – capital letters. Nobody expects anything from them, nobody demands anything from them. Who wants to be free? Welcome! The other name for freedom in excess is called madness.

Halleluiah!

Freedom means no roof, no umbrella, no control, no home, no responsibilities, nothing. If you ever to be a minister, to be a leader, to be a president, to be a governor, or to be anything, to love God, you will live under chains. Yesterday, I read that former president, Trump, is quarrelling with his last son. When you are president, family quarrels, even your problems with your own son is news that people here in Bertoua in Africa. But since many of you don't follow the news, you don't even know. Many of you are so holy that you don't read any news.

So, J, in your experience, freedom has been the pathway of misery, of poverty, uselessness, wretchedness, loss, sorrow, depression, Being under authority for you has been the pathway of glory, of wealth, of prosperity, of joy, and of usefulness in the kingdom of God and even to yourself.

Thank God.

Nebuchadnezzar after twelve years lifted up his eyes and wisdom came back to his heart.

Glory be to God.

Halleluiah!

Cry out to God, don't cry out to God just for fasting, do everything to touch God and for God to lay hold on you.
